

David Barnett
Corsis

David Barnett is the Chairman and Chief Operating Officer of Corsis, a powerful SaaS platform that helps business leaders make great technology decisions by scoring operations for risk, compliance and general best practices. The Corsis platform provides subscribers with a wealth of data, which effectively augments their ability to make technology purchases, operations or investment decisions. David is Chairman of Corsis's Board of Directors and Advisory Board. As COO, he also leads the company's day-to-day operations, including its rapidly growing subscription model, expert services solutions, alliances and channel development. Responsibilities include industry and corporate strategy, product development, corporate affairs, marketing and business operations.

David has considerable experience in leadership positions all along the corporate lifecycle from startup to public company. His M&A history includes both buy-side and sell side transactions across public and private companies.

David was the Mayor of Springfield, NJ, has been a candidate for NJ State Assembly and served on NJ Governor Phil Murphy's Government Technology and Innovation transition committee. David is a board member of the non-profit, All Stars Project of New Jersey, and sits on several corporate advisory boards.
