

Lenny Herold
Corsis

As CTO at Corsis, Lenny is responsible for setting the technology direction for the company as well as cultivating and mentoring its staff of subject matter experts. Lenny also plays a key role in maintaining the quality of service Corsis customers have come to expect from the platform and technology. Lenny's background is in infrastructure and security management, including both cloud and on-premises deployments, and he has run technical operations teams in many diverse environments over two decades in the field.

Prior to Corsis, Lenny was EVP, Systems at Promotions.com, where he led a sizable infrastructure team managing hundreds of systems that supported some of the world's largest and most secure global marketing promotions. Lenny's resume also includes stops as Vice President, Operations at TheStreet.com as well as Director of Operations at iVillage.

Lenny is an accomplished team-builder, specializing in fostering broad multidisciplinary cooperation between technical operations and other less technical groups within an organization. He is an experienced mentor and public speaker. Lenny holds a BS in Telecommunication from the University of Florida.
